SUMMARY

Sarah joined Regeneris after completing an MSc in Development Economics at the University of East Anglia. She has worked on a range of assignments for both public and private sector clients, including socioeconomic analysis, economic development strategy and economic impact assessment. She is experienced in applying a variety of quantitative analysis techniques to develop comprehensive socioeconomic baseline reviews and robust economic findings. She is also skilled at extracting and presenting key findings in a visually impactful way.

SKILLS AND EXPERIENCE

ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL IMPACT

Sarah has contributed to a number of economic impact assessments. Most recently she has used socio-economic data sources and analytical tools to examine the impact of proposed housing and mixed use developments and has experience in impact modelling of economic development projects. She is currently working on three assessments for universities. She has also produced infographics to summarise key insights.

SOCIO-ECONOMIC ANALYSIS AND PRESENTATION

Sarah is experienced at undertaking extensive literature reviews and assessments of policy context, which are presented alongside robust socioeconomic analysis. Sarah is able to take complex economic insight and present it effectively in a way that is easy to understand. She has contributed reviews of local policy context to a number of projects including Cranfield Air Park and Liverpool City Region LEP Advice on PA3 ESIF Call.

PROGRAMME AND POLICY EVALUATION

Building on her academic background, Sarah is experienced in evaluation and has been involved in projects assessing the challenges involved in delivering projects successfully and generating a strong return on public investment.

QUANTITATIVE RESEARCH

Sarah uses her advanced knowledge of econometric and statistical software to analyse complex datasets from a range of sources. She is able to identify trends and summarise key findings to present meaningful conclusions.
